Along South I-75 and US 25

Day One

Depart Lexington—or Knoxville—via I-75 for London, a convenient headquarters for exploring scenic areas and historical and cultural attractions along I-75. Check in to one of the many motels at Exit 38 or Exit 41, and then drive to Renfro Valley to hear music. Watch a video presentation of the history of the Renfro Valley Entertainment Center, one of the three oldest country music establishments in the U.S., operating continuously since 1939. Explore the shops, and then visit the Kentucky Music Hall of Fame & Museum next door and view exhibits on Kentucky's music heritage. Return to Renfro Valley for a family boarding house-style dinner, serving good country cooking, then attend a live stage show at The Barn of country music, family comedy, and top artists.

Options include overnight at the National Heritage Inn next door to the Renfro Valley Entertainment Center at I-75 Exit 62 or the Days Inn, Econo Lodge, or other motels at Exit 62 or Exit 59. En route to London at I-75 Exit 95, near Winchester, visit Fort Boonesborough State Historic Site, a reconstruction of the original wilderness settlement founded by Daniel Boone on the Kentucky River in 1775.

On US 25, on the banks of the Rockcastle River near I-75 Exit 49, the Rockcastle River Trading Company is the best gift store in Kentucky with many items for home and garden. From late spring to early fall, the grounds are planted in magnificent gardens.

Alternatively, drive US 27 (Nicholasville Road) from Lexington to Camp Nelson, the supply depot for the Union Army of the Ohio and one of the main recruitment and training centers for African-American troops in the Civil War. Next door is Camp Nelson National Cemetery. Follow US 27 south to Stanford and have lunch at the Kentucky Depot, serving great home-cooked food. After lunch, follow US 150 to the 1785 William Whitley State Historic Site, which was located on the Wilderness Road that ran up from Cumberland Gap and was a stopping point for pioneers headed west. The earliest horse track in Kentucky is on the property. Follow US 150 back to I-75 and London.

Day Two

After breakfast, visit Levi Jackson Wilderness Road State Park in London, where Boone's Trace to Fort Boonesborough diverged from the Wilderness Road. Take a guided tour of the museum, early settlers' buildings, McHargue's Mill, and original sections of Boone's Trace and the Wilderness Road. Kentucky 229 from London to the park is part of the Wilderness Road National Scenic Byway.

Take I-75 to Exit 29 in Corbin and stop at the Harland Sanders Café & Museum for lunch at the original Kentucky fried chicken restaurant with memorabilia of Colonel Sanders and the history of KFC. After lunch, follow I-75 and US 25W to Cumberland Falls. See the 'Niagara of the South.' The more adventurous can ride the Rainbow Mist to the base of the falls. Return to I-75 and drive to Williamsburg. Check in at the Cumberland Inn. Visit the Cumberland Museum—including over 2000 animals mounted in natural settings, a collection of over 6000 crosses, and Blair's Christmas Collection—on the property and the Craft Shop, featuring Appalachian crafts. Dine at the Athenaeum Restaurant. The Hal Rogers Family Entertainment Center, including Kentucky Splash Water Park, is nearby, offering swimming and other entertainment.

Options include lunch at the buffet in the full-service restaurant at Cumberland Falls State Resort Park. The park is also able to accommodate group tours overnight and offers educational activities, hiking trails, horseback riding, and swimming. Alternatively, after visiting Cumberland Falls return to London for overnight.

From London or Williamsburg, drive to Stearns and ride the Big South Fork Scenic Railway into the Big South Fork National River and Recreation Area with stops at Barthell Mining Camp and Blue Heron Historic Outdoor Museum, a unique National Park Service interpretive facility on the site of a former coal mining 'camp.' Have a Coal Miner's lunch on site. After lunch, ride the train back to Stearns and visit the McCreary County Museum with interesting historic exhibits about life in local logging and mining towns.
